b. First Tip: Two Quick FrontPage Table Tricks - Have you ever needed to create a table in FrontPage but haven't been sure how many rows to include? You really don't need to decide at the outset. Instead, when you get to the last cell in the last row, just press the TAB key. FrontPage then adds a new row just like the last one. So what do you do if you want to move out of that last cell without creating a new row? Press CTRL + ENTER. When you do, the cursor will move to the first line after the table. Second Tip: Print Memo Fields with more than 255 characters on an Access report, without truncation - Set the CanGrow property of the text box bound to the Memo field to "Yes". Make sure that there are no other controls on the same line (that can interfere with the CanGrow property), and the text box will expand as needed to display all the Memo text.
